The Hissing Folly by Cole Swanson

Date and Time: Tuesday, September 8 10:00 am - 4:00 pm

Address: 143 Simpson Avenue, Bowmanville, Ontario, L1C 2H9

The Hissing Folly looks at Durham Region's ecological landscape and poses critical questions around human relationships with invasive species, specifically phragmites (European common reed). Phragmites is a perennial grass that spreads quickly and out-competes native species for water and nutrients. Using the centuries-long tradition of thatching, the resulting construct is a folly; designed primarily for decoration, while suggesting a greater purpose through its appearance.

Please visit our website before you come to see us learn more about what protocols and guidelines we are asking our visitors to follow in order to keep everyone safe and comfortable.

Erika DeFreitas: an object, a gesture, a scene (II)

Date and Time: Tuesday, September 8 10:00 am - 4:00 pm

Address: 143 Simpson Avenue, Bowmanville, L1C 2H9

Thinking through the dichotomy of absence and presence, Erika DeFreitas continues a body of work that responds to two cloaked public sculptures encountered by the artist. DeFreitas explores the notions of what remains, what is suggested, and the possibilities that lie in ambiguity. The works shown at the Visual Arts Centre of Clarington will include a series of new and existing works in the form of works on paper, video, and photography.

The Hissing Folly by Cole Swanson

Date and Time: Saturday, September 12 10:00 am - 4:00 pm

Address: 143 Simpson Avenue, Bowmanville, Ontario, L1C 2H9

The Hissing Folly looks at Durham Region's ecological landscape and poses critical questions around human relationships with invasive species, specifically phragmites (European common reed). Phragmites is a perennial grass that spreads quickly and out-competes native species for water and nutrients. Using the centuries-long tradition of thatching, the resulting construct is a folly; designed primarily for decoration, while suggesting a greater purpose through its appearance.

Erika DeFreitas: an object, a gesture, a scene (II)

Date and Time: Saturday, September 12 10:00 am - 4:00 pm

Address: 143 Simpson Avenue, Bowmanville, L1C 2H9

Thinking through the dichotomy of absence and presence, Erika DeFreitas continues a body of work that responds to two cloaked public sculptures encountered by the artist. DeFreitas explores the notions of what remains, what is suggested, and the possibilities that lie in ambiguity. The works shown at the Visual Arts Centre of Clarington will include a series of new and existing works in the form of works on paper, video, and photography.

James McKeag: Landscapes, Small and Large

Date and Time: Saturday, September 12 11:00 am - 4:00 pm

Address: 175b Queen Street, Port Perry, L9L1B8

Scugog Arts presents James McKeag, an acrylic and oil painter whose landscapes capture the beauty of Port Perry and its surrounding area. McKeag draws inspiration from artists Edward Hopper, Manly MacDonald, and Jackson Pollock. He utilizes two techniques in his landscape work; using vibrant colour, with a focus on light and atmosphere, and 'Dripscapes', a term coined by James, offer a more contemporary approach to landscapes. To see more of James McKeag's inspirational work visit Scugog Arts Space at 175B Queen St, Port Perry, Septemb

The Hissing Folly by Cole Swanson

Date and Time: Sunday, September 20 10:00 am - 4:00 pm

Address: 143 Simpson Avenue, Bowmanville, Ontario, L1C 2H9

The Hissing Folly looks at Durham Region's ecological landscape and poses critical questions around human relationships with invasive species, specifically phragmites (European common reed). Phragmites is a perennial grass that spreads quickly and out-competes native species for water and nutrients. Using the centuries-long tradition of thatching, the resulting construct is a folly; designed primarily for decoration, while suggesting a greater purpose through its appearance.

Erika DeFreitas: an object, a gesture, a scene (II)

Date and Time: Sunday, September 20 10:00 am - 4:00 pm

Address: 143 Simpson Avenue, Bowmanville, L1C 2H9

Thinking through the dichotomy of absence and presence, Erika DeFreitas continues a body of work that responds to two cloaked public sculptures encountered by the artist. DeFreitas explores the notions of what remains, what is suggested, and the possibilities that lie in ambiguity. The works shown at the Visual Arts Centre of Clarington will include a series of new and existing works in the form of works on paper, video, and photography.

Future of Transportation Webinar Series, Session Two: Rail

Date and Time: Tuesday, September 22 1:00 pm - 2:00 pm

Address: Webinar

With over 46,000 km of track, rail operations have stretched across Canada in some form or another for centuries, moving over $300 billion worth of goods across the country. However, recent events have highlighted vulnerabilities in the rail value and supply chain. From strikes to blockades to pandemics, the rail industry has seen its fair share of challenges. Our conversation will revolve around how both passenger and freight rail companies have had to address those challenges and how Canada can continue to position itself as a leader in the rail industry. On the passenger side, we will also discuss consumer confidence and the role it plays in economic recovery.

Crisis Communications in Times of Pandemic

Date and Time: Wednesday, September 23 1:00 pm - 2:00 pm

Address: Webinar

How a business communicates in this era of the COVID-19 pandemic is key to its future success and sometimes its very survival.

As consumer behaviour changes, supply chains become disrupted and employees and employers navigate uncharted territory and potentially uncertain futures, the importance of a well-crafted crisis management plan is becoming ever clearer to Canadian enterprises.

Join us on Wednesday, September 23, 2020 at 1:00 p.m. ET for an interactive webinar with guest speakers Mark Boutet and Larry Markowitz of NATIONAL Public Relations, Canada's leading public relations firm.

We will discuss the basic principles of crisis communication, and focus on maintaining your brand during these challenging times.

Culture Days in Scugog

Date and Time: Saturday, September 26 10:00 am - 5:00 pm

Address: 175 B Queen Street

Culture Days is coming back to Scugog. This year there will be 4-weeks of exciting activities and programs, as well as virtual experiences for the first time. Scugog Arts will once again organize the lineup of events and host a hub of in-person workshops, demonstrations, and live performances - with all health guidelines being followed. Discover the festivities on Saturday, September 26th from 10 am to 5 pm at 175B Queen St.

Virtual programs can be found on the Scugog Arts Facebook page, as well as the national Culture Days website. The online program schedule includes discussions about Indigenous culture hosted by Matthew Stevens from the Mississaugas of Scugog Island First Nation, podcasts from Theatre on the Ridge, and a Music Monday series that will feature basic music industry overview from copyright to publishing. Online events begin on Monday, September 28th.

Visit the Scugog Arts website for the full event list at scugogarts.ca/culture-days/.

COVID-19 guidelines will be in place at all in-person events, including wearing a mask and using hand sanitizer at each activity. The number of people entering the hub will also be monitored.

The Hissing Folly looks at Durham Region's ecological landscape and poses critical questions around human relationships with invasive species, specifically phragmites (European common reed). Phragmites is a perennial grass that spreads quickly and out-competes native species for water and nutrients. Using the centuries-long tradition of thatching, the resulting construct is a folly; designed primarily for decoration, while suggesting a greater purpose through its appearance.

Erika DeFreitas: an object, a gesture, a scene (II)

Date and Time: Sunday, September 27 10:00 am - 4:00 pm

Address: 143 Simpson Avenue, Bowmanville, L1C 2H9

Thinking through the dichotomy of absence and presence, Erika DeFreitas continues a body of work that responds to two cloaked public sculptures encountered by the artist. DeFreitas explores the notions of what remains, what is suggested, and the possibilities that lie in ambiguity. The works shown at the Visual Arts Centre of Clarington will include a series of new and existing works in the form of works on paper, video, and photography.

Employee Engagement and Why It Matters More Today than Ever Before

Date and Time: Tuesday, September 29 9:00 am - 10:00 am

Address: Webinar

Statistics tell us that only 30% of employees are engaged and that engaged employees are happier, more productive, drive better results, and are less likely to leave your organization, but how do you gauge this? Do you have the tools to identify how engaged or disengaged your workforce is? By tapping into the key drivers of engagement for your business – many of which don't cost you anything – you can make a plan to increase and retain the number of engaged employees who will deliver high performance and better overall business results for your organization.

Future of Transportation Webinar Series, Session Three: Air

Date and Time: Wednesday, September 30 1:00 pm - 2:00 pm

Address: Webinar

As one of the first industries to feel the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, the air transportation sector, including airports, airlines, and others in that ecosystem, will undoubtedly be one of the last to fully recover. Before the pandemic, the sector employed about 141,000 Canadians and flew upwards of 70 million passengers per year. Today, that number has plummeted almost overnight as airlines and airports grapple with new economic realities. However, as Canada begins emerging from the depths of the pandemic, industry leaders are finding new and innovative ways to instill consumer confidence and start returning to pre-pandemic levels. Our conversation will address those ways and focus on how Canada's air transport sector can continue to demonstrate leadership in this regard.
