Date and Time: Tuesday, May 5 10:00 am - 11:00 am

Address: Webinar

The Durham Business Recovery Series presents Mental Health in the Workplace During COVID-19.

The mental health impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic are likely to be far-reaching, as individuals cope with disruptions to work routines, the imposition of stay-at-home orders, and uncertainty about the future. Organizational leaders can play a proactive role in blunting these impacts and promoting psychological resilience among their teams. This one-hour presentation will discuss the pandemic's expected impacts on mental health and describe the signs that an employee may be struggling. The PERMA Model of human flourishing (which stands for Positive Emotions; Engagement; Relationships; Meaning; and Achievement) will provide a framework for generating practical and effective strategies to help employees maintain a positive outlook and a sense of wellbeing amid uncertainty.

Speaker:

David Clarke is Coordinator of Communications and Training with Durham Mental Health Services. He has worked locally in community mental health for over 20 years as a case worker, a program supervisor, and now in his current role. David has delivered educational presentations to organizations including Ontario Shores for Mental Health Sciences, the Ontario Ministry of Revenue, and the Region of Durham.

mMornings: Cybersecurity for small businesses

Date and Time: Tuesday, May 26 8:30 am - 10:00 am

Address: Webinar

Does your business have a plan for cyberattacks? Cyberattacks on big companies dominate the news, but small businesses are big targets too. One in five small businesses fall victim to a cyberattack and of those, 60 per cent go out of business in six months. Data shows that most small business owners don't have a plan for response if they're hit.

That's a problem, because cyberattacks can range from the mildly annoying to the deeply destructive. Even the smallest can be costly and time consuming. From phishing scams to data breaches, the average attack costs a business $9,000, says the National Small Business Association.

What you'll learn:

- Why saying "that happens to other businesses - it won't happen to us" can put you out of business
- How you as a business owner can be confident you're fully protected and secure
- The calculation breakdown of the actual loan amount
- What the loan conditions are
- What information is to be provided

Who should attend:

- Members and non-members interested in networking and learning in a fun and supportive environment
- Individuals interested in protecting their business against cyber threats
